Weather Indications. For the District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia: Rain Saturday morning, probably fair Saturday afternoon; much cooler; winds shifting to northwest.

THE ARMOR-PLATE FRAUDS.

Mr. Dunphy, of New York, don't want to pay without further investigation the $1,200,-000 which the government will soon owe the Carnegie company for armor plates. He contends that when the money has been paid it will render useless an investigation, and there will be no redress left for the govern-

Mr. Dunphy appeared before the House Committee on Rules yesterday, and charged that large quantifies of inferior armor plates had been palmed off on the government, and said that the investigation now being conducted by officers of the Navy Department would be useless, as they had no power to summon witnesses or to administer oaths to those who appeared voluntarily.

The Carnegie company has received im mense sums of money on its contracts. Congress and the country have a right to expect first-class material and workmanship. Therefore Congressman Dunphy's desire to probe the matter to the bottom ought to be promptly seconded by the Committee on Rules.

THE BRIBERY INVESTIGATION.

The make-up of the Senatorial committee to investigate the charges of bribery is very generally commended. Senators Gray. Lindsay, Allen, Lodge, and Davis are all strong men, against whom there never has been east a shadow of suspicion. It is understood that they will begin operations immediately, although there are rumors that the chairman of the committee, Mr. Grav, desires to be relieved from duty.

Mr. Gray will probably not be permitted to retire. There may be very little in the charges, and there may be a great deal. The country wants the facts, and will not be satisfied with anything less.

The resolutions authorizing the appointment of the committee are broad, covering not only the specific acts of alleged attempted corruption, but also reaching out into other fields where for some time past there have existed more or less well-grounded suspicions of

THE Appropriations Committee of the Home, in its management of the legislative, executive, and judicial bill, which was yester lay up for consideration, ignores the Senate amendments to the Wilson bill, and omits, emong other items, the sum of $100,000 for salaries of assessors for the sugar bounty.

The Convention City should put in an early bid for their reunion. Surely before the leaves fall Maestro Perugini will be one of the illustrious number. Fortunately, Washington has the Convention ball, Ar the convention of chiefs of labor bureaus, which adjourned yesterday, Mr. Schilling, of Illinois, introduced a resolution on the subject of taxation, and the various methods now in vogue were thoroughly discussed. It occurs to us that a commission made up of these gentlemen might work out a better and more just plan of raising public revenue than those now in use.

THE Pan-American Bimetallic League will meet in this city next Tuesday. The West and South will have a strong representation, and delegates will also be present from Mexico and nearly all the Central American states. The main object of the league is to arrange a basis for the adoption of a silver dollar that will pass current between the United States and all the countries of Central and South America. It is believed by the advocates of the white metal that with a uniform dollars great stimulus will be given to trade.

It looks now as if Mr. Dock: y's bill reduc-ing the departmental force is going to have a hard road to travel. While there is a possitility of its passage by the House, the indications are that it will meet with vigorous opposition in the Senate. The belief is gaining ground that the saving expected to be effected by the proposed changes are more apparent than real. Strong objections will be made to the removal of existing safeguards to frauds, which have stood the test for a century.

DISESTABLISHMENT IN WALES. A recent London dispatch to the Time and by thirty-one bishops has been addressed to the members of the Church of England in Wales. The manifesto declares that the bill for the dis ent of the church in Wales, if it should become law, would weaken the unity of the hurch and allenate the ancient gifts by which the service of God and the pastoral care of the people were maintained for centuries; that it would deprive the poor of their legal rights to seats in the churches, and of the ministrations of the clergy to their sick and dying, and would reduce the Church of Wales to penury, thereby impeding the worship of God.

Of course it would "altenate the ancient gifts" of the Church, but it would also settle the disgraceful system of absenteeism, by which the "rector" spends his time in London or his church "living," and by which in turn the curate, who is left by the rector, shoves his pastoral duties on an assistant who can speak the Welsh language

True, it would also "reduce the Church o Wales to penury," but it would also reduce the terrible tithes, rents and levies that the Welsh are made to pay for the maintenance of a form of worship which they have repeatedly said they do not want.

What has the manifesto of the archbishop got to do with the case, anyway? Let's hear a manifesto from the Protestant chapels, demanding the revenue of the Welsh "church lands" for the churches in which the Weish really worship.

CLOAK ROOM AND GALLERY.

Gun tests in the navy appear to have been a good deal more dangerous fifty years ago than they are now. Representative Geissennainer, of New Jersey, a member of the House Committee on Naval Affairs, tells of a House Committee on Naval Affairs, tests of a remarkable trial trip in 1844, in which the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy, both of whom were on the expedition, were killed by the explosion of the gun that was being tested.

Commodore Stockton, of New Jersey, who was conducting the test, was court-martialed,

New Jersey was largely responsible, according to Mr. Geissenhainer, for the establishment of the Navy Department. It was originally a part of the War Department, which was one of the three original executive bureaus, and was created in 1798 at the instigation of three or four New Jersey delegates in tion of three or four New Jersey delegates in Congress, who feared that in the entanglements of war New Jersey, with her extensive seaboard, would suffer more extensively than other states, and were not satisfied with the steps taken by the then War Department to prepare for such a centingency.

Ever since then New Jersey has maintained her interest and her hold on the Navy Department. She has had three Secretaries and almost continuously a member on the House and Senate Naval Affairs Committee. At this moment Senator McPherson is chair-

Mr. Coombs' searl is not of the same hue as Mr. Phelps'. It is more of a searlet and less of a crimson. But from the regularity with which Mr. Coombs is wearing his, it is likely to prove as famous as Mr. Phelps' used to be.

There is one respect in which both the Senate and House of Representatives have a great advantage in the matter of sociability and the maintenance of a friendly feeling between members of opposite parties over the legisla-tive bodies in Europe. By the committee system Secators and members are brought lato friendly social relations, wholly unknown to the members of the House of Commons, the to the members of the House of Commons, the Reichstag, or the Chamber of Deputies. And inasmuch as every man has something per-sonally attractive about him that wins him friends, the result of the American system is to bring about many friendships among men politically opposed than is true in any other legislative body. That this good feeling has considerable ad-vantages cannot be denied. Even in times of great political tension Senators and members manage to treat each other the greater part of the time with what to European eyes would seem marked courtesy.

In the British Parliament it is rare to hear a speaker descend from the purely political attitude in addressing members of the opposition. In the French and German debates there is allowed a present a litternage in all there is almost a personal bitterness in all partisan discussion. Here it is almost always good-humored, or at least only sarcastic or ironical, with a touch of courtesy which takes the edge off plain language.

The choice of the committee of investigation in the attempted bribery charges and the Seventeen divorces granted in Chicago alleged sugar trust influence on legislation made by Vice President Stevenson is commended on all hands as an excellent selection. The partisan element is very largely out of it, and every member of the committee is a man who is peculiarly well fitted for his task. It is to be hoped the committee will fully live up to the expectations of the public and ferret out all there is to be discovered.

It was said by a well-known member of At the District Buildings.

The Commissioners have requested Public of the Commissioners and being an appointed by the Commissioners and being a provided by the Commissioners and delegate for the District of Columbia to the twenty-first national conference of charities and corrections, to be field at Nashville, Tenn., May 23-29.

These amendments change section 10 of the present interstate commorce isw. SANDY SPRING APPROACHES.

Favorable Action Recommended on the Prospective Burnt Mills Railway. The Commissioners have returned to Congre House bill 6052, "to incorporate the Washington, Burnt Mills and Sandy Spring Railway Company," together with a substitute bill which they offer, with recommendation for adoption

The object of the proposed railway is to furnish transportation and telegraph facilities between this city and ashton, Colesville, and Sandy Spring, Md.

A railway line is now authorized from Sandy Springs to the District line, and it is proposed to secure right of way from the Maryland line to this city.

The Commissioners are in sympathy with the purposes of the company, but do not favor the route hamed in the original bill, and recommend that the route shall extend from the northeastern boundary line of the District to Brightwood avenue, near Albemarle street, for connection with the Brightwood railway, or from the Maryland line, southerly, to connect with the Eckington and Soldiers' Home railway at or near University station, and with the Columbia Suburban railway in University heights, or any other city road that may be ould to that suburb.

The Commissioners entertain no objection to a small-package freight railway and a telegraph line on any of the routes maned. They recommend that the proposed railway company be released from the payment to the District of 4 per cent of the company's gross carnings until after a period of five years from the commencement of the operation of the road.

This release is suggested in view of the present and population along the proposed route.

FRUIT OF THEIR MEETING.

Equitable Taxation Will Be Investigated by the Labor Commissioners. The officials of labor bureaus, who have been holding a three days' convention here, finished their work yesterday and adjourned to meet in Indianapolis next year, the date to be hereafter designated. The principal business of yesterday was the adoption of a resoluness of yesterday was the adoption of a resolu-tion offered by Delecate Schilling, of Jilmois, calling attention of the state authorities to the desirability of having investigations con-ducted into the whole subject of taxation, with a view of securing, if possible, a more equit-able system of taxation than now exists. This was an outcome of the discussion Thursday of the single tax question, although it was understood that the adoption of the resolu-tion did not commit the members to any par-ticular system of taxation.
